

Satisfaction Guarantee

I understand that signing up for an energy therapy session may feel like a big unknown, especially if you've never tried it before. It's not something that can always provide tangible results like we're used to getting with our money. That's why I offer a satisfaction guarantee, to make it no risk for you to try it out.

Often, positive results will become noticeable within the first one to two days. If after three days you don't feel you benefited from the session, simply email or call me and I will refund the full amount to your original method of payment.